Report on Jackson Tuttle's Lesson

Jackson has asked that I provide the following answers after having taken is persuasive writing lesson.

1. What you learned from the lesson

In the lesson, we learned the key components and structure of a persuasive letter.

2. How effectively the lesson was presented

Jackson's teaching was excellent and he did very well fielding very diverse questions from people of different studies and backgrounds (chemical engineer, computer engineer, entrepreneur, etc.).

3. How you will use the information you learned

My profession and educational emphasis are more multimedia based, but I've found that the same principles of persuasion apply. What Jackson taught helps me to be more succinct and targeted in my presentations. I was also able to use some of what I learned to persuade my boss to make a purchase for the department, and by the end of the email he wanted and was willing to go for it.

I think that is all. Thank you and have a fabulous Thanksgiving!
