Meet Richard H. Cartabuke, MD:
Internal Medicine & Executive Health, Cleveland Clinic
Medical Director, Healthnetwork Foundation

We're so glad to have Dr. Cartabuke as our new Medical Director. Several of you might know Dr. Cartabuke from his staff position within the Executive Health program at Cleveland Clinic where he regularly gets five-star ratings from his patients. He is still seeing patients full-time at Cleveland Clinic, but he has also found time to support Healthnetwork. Dr. Cartabuke has been working with our staff and our members for a few months now and truly enjoys helping unravel some of the medical questions that are posed to our staff.

In addition to the program at Cleveland Clinic we have several other hospitals with outstanding Executive Health programs. To be matched with one that meets your needs and health goals, call us at +1 866-968-2468 or email us at help@healthnetworkfoundation.org.

One Call Starts it All:
We're here for you and your loved ones

When Robyn Tretter felt a strange lump in her abdomen, she was concerned but not panicked. She went to see her primary care physician, who ran some tests and told her it was an ovarian cyst. That didn't sound so bad. But then he recommended she see a cancer specialist, and Robyn's anxiety went through the roof.

Thankfully, Robyn remembered the family office she works for has a partnership with Healthnetwork, and she made the call. Click here to read the rest of her story.

If you're facing a scary, overwhelming health situation, you're not alone. Remember:
