

William W. Rowley, Chairman and Founder of Healthnetwork Foundation, to Receive Prestigious 2026 Horatio Alger Award

Horatio Alger Association names 11 honorees to 2026 membership class, recognizing resilience, determination, and achievement

WASHINGTON, January 27, 2026—The Horatio Alger Association of Distinguished Americans, Inc., a nonprofit that honors leaders who have overcome adversity and supports young people in furthering their education, today announced that William W. Rowley, Chairman and Founder of Healthnetwork Foundation, will receive the prestigious Horatio Alger Award and become a lifetime member of the organization. Rowley joins 10 other exceptional corporate, civic, and cultural leaders from across the country in the 2026 class of honorees. For the last 79 years, the Horatio Alger Award has recognized esteemed individuals who have achieved remarkable success despite significant challenges, and who demonstrate a strong commitment to higher education and philanthropy.

Rowley was raised in an Amish community in Middlefield, Ohio. Although his family was not Amish, 40% of his classmates were, and he embraced the simple, rural lifestyle. In ninth grade, his father was transferred to a larger town and Rowley had to adapt to a new and more competitive environment. He pursued higher education at Miami University in Ohio, where he earned a bachelor's degree in political science.

After college, Rowley joined his father's business, Mercury Plastics, Inc., and became the driving force behind its rapid growth. Rowley eventually bought the company and later sold it after 46 years of leadership. During that time, he graduated from the Harvard Business School's Owner/President Management program and was named Northeast Ohio Entrepreneur of the Year. Rowley has also been involved with the Young Presidents' Organization (YPO) for decades.

In 1991, Rowley created the nonprofit Healthnetwork Foundation (first known as the Inventory of Skills Foundation), which helps business leaders quickly connect with top hospitals and physicians for world-class care, while channeling their generosity back into medical research and recognizing exceptional clinicians. In more than 30 years as founder and chairman, Rowley has grown the organization to more than 8,000 members and has built strong ties to every top hospital and doctor in order to help an average of 20 families a day.

“Growing up in a small farming town taught me early on how important community is, and that lesson has stayed with me throughout my life. I hope my legacy reflects a deep commitment to helping those in need and recognizing the incredible work of our doctors—that’s the footprint of the Healthnetwork Foundation,” said William W. Rowley. “As a member of the Horatio Alger Association, I’m excited to mentor and empower the next generation as they forge their own paths to success. There's nothing more rewarding than opening doors for others, and I'm truly honored to be part of this organization's mission."

Rowley has dedicated decades to philanthropy and service. He has received YPO's highest honor, the Hickok Distinguished Service Award, and the Steve D. Bullock Humanitarian Award for his contributions to the Greater Cleveland community. Rowley also serves on the boards of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum, Strang Corporation, Steere Industries, and Molded Fiber Glass Company.

"Bill Rowley's life and career are a testament to resilience, dedication, and generosity," said James F. Dicke II, Chairman and CEO of Crown Equipment Corporation and Chairman of the Horatio Alger Association, who nominated Rowley for the Award. "I've had the privilege of knowing him personally, and his commitment to helping others and giving back to the community is truly inspiring. The Association is proud to welcome him as a member, where his story and leadership will continue to inspire young people to pursue their dreams."

Rowley and the member class of 2026 will be formally inducted into the Association during the 79th Horatio Alger Award Induction Ceremonies in Washington, D.C., in April. The annual ceremonies coincide with the Horatio Alger National Scholars Conference, which gives more than 100 students the unique opportunity to explore the nation's capital and to meet and learn from Association Members.
