

BARRY MINOFF ESTABLISHES A NEW KIND OF LEGACY

You might know Barry Minoff as a Hollywood actor and producer. If you ever do business in Cleveland, you may also know him as a business leader. A few may know him as a board member at the Rock Hall of Fame.

In October 2018, Barry established himself in a new kind of Hall of Fame (in our book anyway!).

Barry and his family pledged an eight-figure gift to the University Hospitals of Cleveland in honor of the wonderful care they have received over the years.

Barry has been a friend and supporter of Healthnetwork since our inception in the early 90s. So his recent gift is no surprise to us; it's completely in character with his philanthropic attitude and his desire to champion better medicine.

We could brag about him all day long, but Barry says it best:

“Through my relationship with Bill Rowley and Healthnetwork I have come to appreciate just how important and life-changing it is to have access to the best medical care, like we have here in Cleveland. Our family has received excellent care at University Hospitals and this donation is our way to pay it forward.”

In recognition of a significant gift from the Minoff family, University Hospitals is renaming UH Chagrin Highlands Health Center the UH Minoff Health Center at Chagrin Highlands. UH Minoff Health Center is our system's busiest and most prominent outpatient facility, with more than 100,000 patient visits every year.

Sam Minoff, his late wife, Clare, and their children – Amy and Michael Southard, Barry Minoff and Roy Minoff – have been business leaders in Cleveland for decades and, with this gift, are now among University Hospitals' most generous donors. Through the family's gift, UH will ensure that thousands of people each year continue to receive the highest-quality care in a convenient location.
