

Dear Organization,

Would you like a dynamic and entertaining Board-Certified Ob/Gyn physician as a speaker at one of your events?

Bryan S. Jick, MD, FACOG, MSCP is a member of The Menopause Society. In 2021, he earned a special menopause credential, MSCP, which means "Menopause Society Certified Practitioner". Dr. Jick has been in private practice in Pasadena for over 35 years. His practice is limited to Gynecology only and he treats many menopausal and pre-menopausal patients.

Dr. Jick sees himself more as a professional talker than a speaker. He is not giving a speech—he is talking with people, something he has done one-on-one with patients throughout his career. He gives an informative talk about menopause and perimenopause, his areas of expertise, lasting 30 to 45 minutes or longer, depending on audience questions (and there will be questions!).

Dr. Jick is available to talk with educational or professional groups, non-profits, workplaces, networking events, social organizations, religious groups, breakfast, lunch or dinner events, on weekdays or weekends. He enjoys having a conversation with the audience, inviting their comments and participation, and telling anecdotes and stories. The goal is to empower the audience to think about menopause -- not as the change of life, but as life-changing!

His services are free if the event is within 20 miles of Pasadena and requires no hotel or meal. If travel is involved, especially out-of-town, then reimbursement for travel and related expenses is expected, but there is no fee for the talk.

Dr. Jick has limited availability as he is a full-time practicing ob/gyn physician, so act now if you'd like him to talk with your group.
