

PARTNER FORCES

Arlington, VA. (June 19, 2020) – Partner Forces was named one of the 2020 Best Places to Work by the Washington Business Journal. This annual award honors leading employers in the Greater Washington area that go above and beyond to create an enjoyable and meaningful work environment for their employees.

“Partner Forces is honored to be selected by the Washington Business Journal as a best place to work. We pride ourselves on our company culture that empowers our teammates, fosters growth, and promotes a sense of community. This award is a testament to our talented team and their embodiment of our core values,” said president and founder, Jenny Stone. “I’m proud of our team, the culture that we’ve built, and the results that we deliver.”

The name Partner Forces reflects our commitment to collaboration and the belief that the best results are achieved while working as one team toward one mission. This award recognizes the core values that serve as the foundation for the company’s culture and success:

- Open Communication: We encourage open and honest dialogue with ourselves and our clients even when it is hard.
- Teamwork: We believe in empowering individuals as part of a diverse team that recognizes the sum is greater than its parts.
- Solution-Oriented Thinking: When we work, we transform obstacles into opportunities.
- Respect for Others: We are all different, but all equal. Diversity results in fresh ideas and approaches leading to innovation and long-term success.
- Positivity: We believe that positive energy and attitudes are contagious and provide the foundation for a happy and productive workplace.
- Integrity: We deliver on our promises by holding ourselves accountable to the highest standards of professionalism and ethics.

Partner Forces and other honorees were featured in the Washington Business Journal. Rankings of the Best Places to Work honorees will be announced later this year at a special awards event at MGM National Harbor.
