Good-byes:

As I write this note, I am reflecting on the years Erin and I have worked together, and feeling both proud and sad as she starts a new chapter in her life. Erin is more than unique, she is special. Special, because she embodies amazing skills, unique talents, and a beautiful personality. She will be greatly missed.

With Erin's new chapter beginning in her life, so begins a new chapter in the life of St. George's School. As I contemplate this new beginning, I am bringing in a new employee to help in the office. Her name is Brandy White, she was one of the interns this semester and is already familiar with our school. Brandy has just graduated with her M.S. in Occupational, Workforce and Leadership Studies, plus a Certificate of Ethics. She will step in starting May 14 and begin her training here at the school. Erin will continue to be here throughout the summer and help with training.

Not only are we going to experience Erin's departure, but time is also drawing near for our Explorers to begin their new quest. Watching the children grow and learn through their years here has been an honor and we are all so proud of them. I am confident they will soar in their new surroundings. All of their teachers throughout their time here contributed in building a strong foundation and love of learning.
