

Topically Delivered Nasal Medication- Symptom Management

Dear Prescriber,

Well Life Pharmacy would like to take a moment of your time to share some information regarding medications prescribed for nasal symptom management.

We have received numerous requests from prescribers for corticosteroid, antihistamine, anticholinergic, and mucolytic medications as well as antibiotic and antifungal medications that can be delivered nasally for patients with both allergic and infective chronic sinusitis.

Patients who might benefit from the topical delivery of such medications could include patients who are currently using: (1) nasally delivered steroids, (2) nasally or orally delivered antihistamines, (3) nasally delivered anticholinergics, (4) nasally or orally delivered mucolytics, (5) orally delivered Montelukast, or (6) irrigation systems to clear out the nasal cavities and remove debris.

We also have solutions for your patients with chronic sinus infections. There are new treatment options for chronic fungal and bacterial sinus infections that are curative rather than using reoccurring oral antibiotics. For your patients that have had two or more sinus infections in the last 12 months please contact us for treatment options.

We would love to talk to you about the opportunity to serve the medication needs of your patients dealing with such conditions. If this would be of interest to you or if you would like to have an in-office presentation regarding our services, please do not hesitate to contact the pharmacy at the above listed number.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Foster
