

Veterinary Compounding at Hopkinton Drug

Compounding is the creation of unique preparations which are ordered by a doctor, customized for a patient, and formulated by a compounding pharmacist.

Does your patient require a different size dosage than is commercially available?

Would compliance be easier with flavored medications?

Are the medications you've come to rely on no longer available?

Hopkinton Drug can compound medications that greatly enhance the ability to treat your patients.

As veterinarians and pet owners know, giving medication to animals can often be challenging. We have a solution to this common problem. Our compounding team is ready to prepare innovative and easy to use dosage forms using the most up to date information and technology. Our role is to help provide alternatives and offer creative solutions. We'll help you take the stress out of medicating your pet.

We offer many convenient dosage forms for optimal results:

- Transdermals, topicals, suspensions, liquids, suppositories, capsules, chewable treats, troches, otics
- Flavor options include: beef, chicken, liver, fish, fruit
- Medications without fillers, dyes, or preservatives upon request

At Hopkinton Drug we build strong relationships with our clients. Our compounding pharmacists work with you to ensure that animals receive the highest quality preparations customized to meet their needs.

We have thousands of formulations available to us. If one of our compounds doesn't meet your specific needs, we will collaborate with you to create one that does.

From home pets to exotics, we service the veterinary community in its entirety. Our staff is trusted to make medications for leading zoos, aquariums, and rescue shelters. Our friendly staff is always available to answer all of your questions.
