

Pete Seeger: The Storm King Description One Sheet

Pete Seeger's last project bridges generations!

This performance is based on the Grammy® nominated audio project conceived and produced by world-renowned, Grammy award winning percussionist and producer, Jeff Haynes.

In this unique blend of spoken word, music, and video, Pete Seeger's spoken words will be piped in as Jeff Haynes and accompanying musicians perform a combination of new music and music written by or popularized by Pete Seeger.

Featured are traditions as diverse as African Music, Blues, Bluegrass, Classical Guitar, Folk, Jazz, and East Indian Music and performances of some of Pete's songs that were inspired from his travels around the world.

This multi-genre music and assorted video footage will accompany and interact with Pete Seeger's voice—painting an evocative aural and visual backdrop for Seeger's most engaging stories, narratives, and poems reflecting his lifelong dedication to human rights, environmental issues, and his boundless hope for humanity.

The experience is moving, intimate, and truly an extraordinary celebration of one of our nation's greatest performers and activists.

This project brings Pete's wisdom and stories to new audiences and into a new technological age.

The result is astounding.

Jeff Haynes presents a live performance of Pete Seeger: The Storm King with Richie Stearns, Sara Milonovich, Sean Harkness, and Timothy Hill, a multi-media presentation of Pete Seeger's spoken words—in his own recorded voice—set to live music and video.
