Businesses that specialize in manufacturing, assembly, or storage of a product don't have the luxury of stalling operations, even as a result of a natural or man-made disaster. To avoid delays in the supply chain, partnering with a trusted and experienced restoration contractor is a must. Cotton Global Disaster Solutions has worked with multiple industrial facilities over the past 25 years and is fully equipped to restore any damage associated with windstorms, water incidents, fires, and environmental catastrophes.

Committed to safety, Cotton GDS's certified professionals follow the strict protocols and guidelines set forth by local, state, and federal regulatory agencies. In addition to its familiarity with the industry, Cotton's innovative techniques and equipment allow your workforce to continue operating at full speed while restorations are underway. With this capability, your stakeholders, including employees and end-users, will notice little to no delays.
