

Trimix Injection

Prescription-strength ED treatment when other options fall short.

✓ COMPOUNDED · INJECTABLE · PHYSICIAN-PRESCRIBED

For men with erectile dysfunction who haven't gotten the results they need from oral medications, Trimix is often the answer. It's a compounded injectable solution that works directly at the site — regardless of the underlying cause — delivering reliable, consistent results even when pills, troches, or other therapies haven't.

What Is Trimix?

Trimix is a compounded injectable containing three vasoactive agents — alprostadil, papaverine, and phentolamine — that work together to relax smooth muscle and increase blood flow directly to penile tissue. It is self-administered via a small-gauge needle and produces an erection within minutes, independent of arousal state or systemic vascular function. It is the most effective pharmacological treatment for ED available.

Three Ingredients. One Powerful Result.

Alprostadil

A prostaglandin that directly relaxes smooth muscle and dilates blood vessels in penile tissue.

Papaverine

A phosphodiesterase inhibitor that sustains relaxation and increases blood flow duration.

Phentolamine

An alpha-blocker that prevents vasoconstriction and reinforces the combined vasodilatory effect.

When Trimix Makes Sense

Works When Pills Don't

Effective even when oral PDE5 inhibitors (sildenafil, tadalafil) have failed or are contraindicated.

Cause-Independent

Works regardless of whether ED is vascular, neurological, post-surgical, or diabetic in origin.

Reliable & Predictable

Produces an erection within 5–15 minutes in the vast majority of men who use it correctly.

Custom Concentration

Trimix is compounded — dose is tailored to you. Start low, find your dose, adjust as needed.
