

Cork & Barrel co-owners Jay Kudla and Jason Moorhead, mid-westerners turned Texans, and Sam Darlington, born and raised in Belfast, Ireland, spent countless hours together in pubs around the world researching the best craft beers to bring to Cork & Barrel. Below are the stories behind just four of the finest craft brews that the trio discovered. Try one, or sample them all.

I'm Your Huckleberry Wheat

A true lover of craft wheat IPA's, Jason created the iconic name for this pale wheat IPA. Featuring a dominant blueberry/huckleberry flavor and secondary notes of citrus, oranges, and freshly cut grass, it's the perfect summer sidekick at your table or in our beer garden. So try one – you're a daisy if you do!

Island Time Juicy IPA

When Sam isn't busy building things with his hands, he dons an international sea captain hat and sets sail on his 34' Catalina sailboat. This hazy summer IPA is full-bodied and succulent with secondary notes of tropical fruit. One sip of this popular IPA, the highest ABV of the four, and you'll feel like you've set sail on a tropical vacation.

Norm Peterson Dublin Red

An homage to that other place where everybody knows your name and to the loyal patron who became its cornerstone, this Irish Red in the spirit of Smithwick's or Killian's is a smooth, medium-bodied beer with a lingering toasted-malt finish and secondary notes of baked bread and toffee. Cheers! Or as they say in Ireland, "Sláinte!"

Black Labrador Vanilla Stout

Named after Jay's past and present pack of black labs – Bear, Nala, and Daphne – this full-bodied and flavorful winter stout with dominant notes of vanilla bean and malt is so refreshing it's perfect year-round and, we believe, is set to become many of our patrons' new best friend.
